Nation-Wide Tribute Marks Reception To One And Only Lindy

STREETS OF WASHINGTON, BLACK WITH MILLING THROGS AS CONQUERING HERO COMES

By DAMON RUNYON

(Universal Service Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 11.—A bashful looking long-legged, gangling boy, with cheeks ever so pink, and with a cowlick in his hair that won't let the blonde locks stay slicked down, came back to his home folks today one of the biggest men in all this world.

JUST LINDY

DAMON RUNYON

Lindy!

My heart, how young he seemed!

And how weighty, and almost absurd the Colonel Charles Augustus Lindbergh sounded as you gazed at him sitting there, as slim as your finger, in the tonneau of a huge automobile, flanked fore and aft by the pomp and circumstance of a great parade.

LOOKED FRIGHTENED

Say, he looked frightened as the auto slowly moved down a deep defile of cheering humanity, with naked sabre blades flashing over the tossing red and yellow headstalls of the horses, and the artillery, rumbling heavily along the asphalt, and bands blaring.

He look so frightened, and so very, very young that you felt your old Adam's apple working, and you wished that you might get to him, and put your arm around him, like you would do with the lad at home, and say to him:

"Now, looky here, sonny, don't you be scart, these folks are just trying to let you know they're glad to see you."

MOTHER THERE

Mother was with him there in the automobile, to be sure, in her new dress, and her new black hat, but mother, too, seemed frightened, though she tried to smile a brave smile. It was one of those rare occasions when even mother wasn't exactly certain what to do.

They drew together in the tonneau of the big car these two who are each other's all, as if for mutual protection against the increasing din, and as they perhaps often drew together in bygone years when the noises of the night seemed to threaten She held his hand. The Lone Eagle of the Atlantic, the mighty navigator of the uncharted sky, seemed a very little boy as he sat there at mother's side—and such a boy!

COOLIDGE EULOGY

Your heart went out to him again later when he stood up, tall, and slender and boyish looking, above acres and acres of people, the pink flush on his cheeks even pinker, and the shyness still in his eyes, and heard the mild looking little man who is the President of the nation exalt him, and give him an oration such as no other person has ever received.

You wished you might get to him then, and say—if your voice could hold steady enough:

"Now, Buddy, everything is all-I right."

And so it is, for Lindy is home.

COLONEL? NO, LINDY

That is the only name for him after you see him—Lindy. The "Colonel" that President Coolidge called him is too ponderous, and lacks the note of affection that rang through the welcome given the boy today by upwards of 500,000 people.

MILLING THROGS

"Lindy! Lindy! Lindy!" was the cry when the big automobile was moving through the streets of the nation's capital, with the people struggling furiously on the sidewalks trying to press closer to the curb and hanging from the windows of the buildings.

Lindy—That's love!

He came o'nin a spick-and-span double breasted blue suit, with a little splash of red at the left lapel where he wears the ribbon of the legion of honor of France, first of the many decorations that have been bestowed on him.

NO UNIFORM

There was some plan afoot to hand him a military uniform with the eagles of his new military titles on the shoulder straps. Lindy would have none of that. Lindy has a way of doing things his own way.

His head was bare as he rode through the streets, the central figure of the greatest demonstration that has ever been given an individual in the history of this country. The hot June sun beat down on him, and a very light breeze kept rumpling his fair hair. His face is cameo-like in the clearness of its cut.

Maybe the young Gods of mythology looked like this

YOUTHFUL HERO CHAMPIONS U. S. AIR PROGRESS

Passenger Lines In U. S.
Declared To Be Far
Behind Europe

WASHINGTON, June 11.—America's backwardness in developing passenger air lines was given a ringing blow by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in a vigorous address at the Washington auditorium here tonight.

CHAMPIONS U. S. AVIATION

In this first pronouncement on the nation's aviation since coming home Lindbergh threw aside the role of a youthful flyer who had won the plaudits of the world for an outstanding accomplishment. He became America's champion for commercial aviation and he knew his stuff.

6,000 SCREAM DELIGHT

Six thousand persons screamed with delight when Lindbergh appeared to the industrial interests of his native land to push aside passenger air development so that "Europe will look upon our passenger lines as they now look upon our air mail lines."

AIR PORTS NEEDED

"What we need now is a series of air ports," said the super air man and the crowd went delicious with excitement.

This youth of 25 who has risen all day and tonight to superlatives of his greatness accepting them with modesty unbending himself on aviation and the world acclaimed him in a quick and decisive manner.

TOOK FIRST CHANCE

One minute he had the vast audience buckling over with laughter and the next in wild cheers such as no manufactured applause at a political convention ever attained.

This home welcome reception was given under the auspices of the national press club. Lindbergh seized his first opportunity in Washington to shake up America on her aviation development.

Lindy plunged into America's plight in commercial air craft development as compared with progress made by European nations. Taken by the masses, as an unassuming boy with countless courage, Lindy in plain English hurled his platform before senators, congressmen, ranking army and navy officials and cabinet officials.

EUROPEAN AIR LINES

"While I was in England several things were brought to my attention.

"All Europe looks at our air mail lines with reverence. There is nothing like them. While we have air mail lines they have passenger lines. While all we have is a few passenger lines, they have many.

"We ought to develop our passenger lines. We are better situated, we can make longer flights without crossing international boundaries.

SUBSIDY SOLUTION

"You may ask why Europe has better lines than we. The answer is subsidy. We don't want subsidy here. While subsidy will create passenger lines over night these lines would be regulated by the subsidy.

"What we need now more than any one thing to develop our aviation is a series of air ports."

FOURTH DUE TO BE DAY OF QUIET

What, no firecrackers? What kind of a Fourth of July will this be?

It's the sad truth, shipmates, Fire Chief W. P. Cooper yesterday declared that only two pistols would be allowed to blaze away—and, incidentally, blazes are the cause of the injunction.

Chief Cooper declares that besides causing a lot of pleasurable noise, fireworks are responsible for grass fires, and blazes in debris and frame buildings. In fact, they constitute a "fire hazard"—and that's that.

In Chicago, machine gun fire will be allowed as usual.

Rev. and Mrs. Frank A. Woten will celebrate their fifteenth wedding anniversary today. Rev. Woten will speak on the theme, "Marriages—Why Some Succeed and Why Some Fail," at the evening service and in addition will perform a free marriage ceremony for any young couple presenting themselves before that time.

Some of the questions to be discussed will be: Would I marry if doing it all over, and would I marry the same one? Are divorces ever permissible? When are you married? Does the officiating party make any difference? Mrs. Rose Calfee and Miss Catherine Warner will render solos on this program.

PUPILS OF JUNE SWIFT APPEAR IN RECITAL

June Swift of Richmond presented her male pupils in a musical to a large audience in the San Rafael Improvement clubhouse with the assistance of Marion Scofield, soprano, and Madeline Green, impersonalistic dancer. The pupils showed good training, and rendered their selections with assurance and style. The men from Richmond included Roy Rogers, Lucile Kneeland, and Will S. Schmidt, all favorably known here, having had leading parts in the operetta, "El Toroso," recently given by the Mendelssohn club. Each sang two songs. Rogers sang "Twilight," by Glen and "Ay, Ay, Ay," a creole song. Kneeland rendered "The Pilgrim's Song," by Tchaikovsky and "Trade Winds," by Keel. Schmidt sang "Sunset," by Dudley Buck and "Banjo Song" by Homer.

Mrs. Marion Scofield of Richmond sang two groups of songs as assisting artist and as usual captivated the audience with her voice and artistic interpretation of the songs. She sang two groups of three songs each, her numbers being as follows: "My Lovely Celtic," an old English ballad, "La Serenata," Tosti, "Ho, Mr. Piper," Curran, were included in the first group and "The Cuckoo Clock," by Leon, "The Shadow March," by Del Riego and "The Fuzzy Wuzzy Owl," by Lucia Neelands.

"The Fuzzy Wuzzy Owl" was written by a San Rafael woman especially for Mrs. Scofield and was dedicated to her. Her rendering of it caused much enthusiasm in the audience.

The federation of the local Parent-Teachers' association will hold its recess meeting at the Lincoln school Wednesday, June 15, at 2 o'clock in room 14. The term's business will be completed at this session. The meeting was to have been held at the home of Mrs. C. L. Held.

Relief! Letter 'Q' Is Now On Belt Buckles For Good

By EDWARD M. RUTTENBER
NEW YORK, May 21. — Men whose last names begin with the letter "Q" will be much interested in the belts turned out by the larger concerns for the summer season. Heretofore there has been no initial buckle for the Messrs. Quinn, Quimby, Quackenbush, Quad, Quintard, Queen, Quick, Quigley, Quigg and others whose last names feature the odd letter in the alphabet.

There were so few members of this exclusive fraternity that the belt manufacturers did not trouble for many years to make initial buckles, a process that required the casting of special dies.

This year the letter "Q" has been added to the solid buckle series and the chaps who have heretofore been compelled to accept the belts that gave preference to the first letter of their baptismal names are in high glee.

Taking their lead from the women, many well dressed men will feature the reptile series in their belts this season. There are novelties in alligator and other reptile skins that will appeal to the man in perpetual pursuit of the unusual. Alligator is the most popular of the zoo styles owing to the fact that alligator harmonizes with any suit that one may care to wear. There are also alligator skin sports shoes for men and those who care to do so may match belts and foot-wear.

Lizard has been used to some extent in getting out the new belts. Belts have also been styled this season to match the new neckwear, as a result of which there are maroon, peach, tan, blue and other colors. The harmonizing of neckwear and belts is part of the new ensemble scheme that is putting color to the fore in men's apparel and crossgrain silks to match the delicious mogadore cravats are now available.

The tongue buckle belt has been more or less held in check by the snappy notions put out in slide buckle effects.

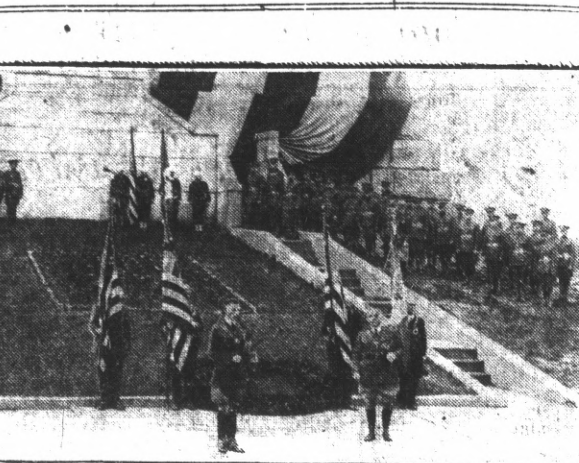

Men who have heretofore worried about a place to carry their watches will find on many of the new belts a beltogram or regular proof chain and fastener.

Funeral services were held yesterday at the Wilson and Kratzer chapel for Helen Isabel Harmon, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Harmon, 166 Thirteenth street, who passed away Thursday morning at a local hospital. Rev. Frank A. Woten, pastor of the First Christian church, officiated. Interment was in Sunset View cemetery.

Spirit Of Spring Fails To Influence Masculine Buying

By EDWARD M. RUTTENBER
NEW YORK, June 4. — To the idea of March and the uncertainty of May, men's wear business in the metropolitan zone for the month ended May 31 was classified by merchants as the most unsatisfactory in recent years, due entirely to the cold weather and rain that reduced demand to a "must" basis. Consumers purchased only actual requirements and limited their luxury buying almost entirely. The spirit of spring was almost completely crushed by damp days and sustained cold weather.

In the retail field the damage took the form of deferred buying, while it does not signify that the straw hat business is hopelessly side-tracked will undoubtedly bring down volume. The consumers will buy their straw hats late in the season and this means that they will be able to put off the 4th of July. Many of the New York hat makers have been hoping for a second run of buying that would favor the higher priced weaves. While these models will probably be sold they will be disposed of at greatly reduced prices.

The clothiers have been hit harder than any other branch of the men's apparel dealers owing to the lack of necessity for buying spring clothing.

Such accessories as white flannel trousers, linen knickers and short jackets in summer weights have been slow moving. Sports shoes, summer weight oxfords and seasonal novelties have only recently revealed any activity.

boy when they were on parade. There was many a sharp intaking of breath from the girls along the sidewalks as he passed. Who could blame them? Never a more beautiful boy was born of mother. Over six feet of sheer, twenty-five years of glorious youth, a clean mind, and conscience, and honor before all other living men!

SMILED AT CROWDS
He smiled frequently at the cheers rolled out from the curbs and down from the buildings. But it was a shy embarrassed smile. He spoke occasionally to his mother, at that moment the envy of all the mothers in the world.

Before him and behind him the brassy blare of bands, and the thud of hoofs, and the pad-pad of marching feet, and the slant of rifles, and with many a military and civil big wig at his service, and the population of a big city hip-booraying—thus came Lindy to his own.

SLEEPS IN WHITE HOUSE
He sleeps tonight in the same house with the President of the United States, his mother the guest of the first lady of the land. Indeed it was Mrs. Coolidge who led all the applause of the mighty gathering on the slope of Washington monument when Lindy was decorated by President Coolidge.

In the furnishings field there is some complaining over the difference of many of the New York consumers to the new spring numbers, which are unusually colorful and attractive. The furnishers point out that the consumer can hardly be blamed for lack of interest inasmuch as the vestless season, which encourages the wearing of new cravats, was postponed for practically 30 days by adverse weather conditions. In a measure the shirt market has suffered because of the delay in the spring season. Soft collar shirts have been brought out in great numbers for the summer trade but there was little demand for this class of goods in the new numbers.

Such accessories as white flannel trousers, linen knickers and short jackets in summer weights have been slow moving. Sports shoes, summer weight oxfords and seasonal novelties have only recently revealed any activity.

BEATRICE FRENCH BECOMES BRIDE OF ALASCO HOLMES

Miss Beatrice French became the bride of Alasco Holmes at a pretty home wedding last night at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur French, of 152 Third street. The ceremony was performed by the bride's brother-in-law, the Rev. E. G. Broughtin, pastor of the Grace Baptist church of Modesto.

The bride was charming in a white georgette evening gown and carried baby roses. Her sister, Mrs. Helen Walker, who was her attendant, wore a georgette evening gown of pink. Clayton Martin acted as best man.

Mrs. Albert French, sister-in-law of the bride, played the wedding march from Lohengrin, and Mrs. E. G. Broughtin, her sister, sang, "Oh, Promise Me." A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

The hill is seven miles long with a dirt road and is so steep that it is recognized as a low gear hill. Last week Lee Semar drove the Falcon-Knight pictured in the cut and with Harry Semar as a passenger took the hill in second all the way, making a record run.

"The car was not laboring any in any way," said Semar, "and we were not troubled with overheating power. Contra Costa County is a very popular car."

AUTO INDUSTRY CONFIDENT OF GOOD BUSINESS

DETROIT, Mich., June 11. With every indication of continuing good business, the automobile industry today looks forward with marked confidence toward the second half of 1927. Best evidence of the prosperity that promises to attach itself to the second half is the remarkable position of General Motors, coupled with the optimistic view of business in the coming months taken by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the corporation and the interest in the forthcoming Ford announcement.

Other large makers, notably Chrysler, Willis Overland, Nash and Dodge Brothers have formulated plans which, if carried out, to the full should contribute measurably to the maintenance of a high level of sales.

Although the industry has long been characterized as outstanding in its eagerness to provide the greatest possible dollar's worth of car for the money, the buyer of a car these days should take increasing satisfaction out of the sharp competition that prevails in the industry today. As a result of it, the 1927 automobile buyer is provided with a choice of value, measured at the money a few years ago.

POLITICAL FILM NOW SHOWING AT CALIFORNIA

Is there a feeling of kinship between women of different strains of life who have never met? This is one of the things which may well be discussed after "The Telephone Girl" is seen. Why? According to the scenario, a political party approach is the climax on election eve. Matthew Standish, the probable winner, is being feted at his hotel. "Boss Jim" Blinn, father-in-law of the present governor, Mack Robinson, comes to brandish a weapon in his face. It is not a gun, merely a slip of paper which will realize what is at stake even at this late hour. Standish sweats that a damaging story is being printed and will be read by every voter on the morning.

Then, knowing that Standish will immediately call the women with whom he is involved, Standish tries to bribe the phone girl into passing to him Standish's number but she realizing what is at stake will not do so. She is even when being subjected to a clever line of questioning. Why does she do this?

Standish found out today at the California theatre when Herbert Brenon's new Paramount production opens. "The Telephone Girl" features Madge Bellamy, May Allison, Lawrence Gray, Elizabeth Meehan, and Fred Welle. The film is a political comedy, "Fox News," which will be shown at the California theatre at the organ and five acts of vaudeville.

"AN AFFAIR OF THE FOLLIES" AT RICHMOND

Did you ever try to meet someone for a whole year, and then discover that during all that time you had been dancing at a restaurant table adjoining his, six days per week?

That is one of the many intensely human plot kinks of First National's "An Affair of the Follies" which is the attraction at the Richmond theatre today. Lewis Stone, Billie Dove, and Lloyd Hughes are featured in the picture which begins in a New York chop house, where three men, whose lives are being vitally entangled by outside events meet daily without knowing each other.

Of course, it is a woman who brings the three men together—charming Billie Dove, who is the screen wife of Lloyd Hughes and the object of Lewis Stone's desire. The story is packed with clever twists and genuine human interest, and parts of it are a gorgeous visual treat, for among the various settings are some colorful scenes of famous Hollywood Music Box Revue.

Other film features include "My Kid," a Big Boy comedy, and a beautiful "Sportlight" musical. Coming Monday and Tuesday, "Exit Smiling" featuring Jack Pickford and Beatrice Lillie.

St. Marks Ladies Hold Benefit Whist Here

A large crowd attended the benefit whist party given by the ladies of St. Marks church last night in L. O. O. F. hall. The following winners were announced: Mrs. J. Spaulding, Mrs. J. Austin, Mrs. Seeger, Mrs. Lechard, Mrs. Bassham, Mrs. M. Sullivan, Mrs. J. L. Collins, and the Messrs. John Collins, F. Trautvetter, M. Adair, J. Frates, D. Murphy, and J. Robinson.

For instance, they drove the Chandler from San Pablo avenue up to the Berkeley Country Club all the way in high, a feat which takes a car with great power and speed range, as many Richmond people well know.

Then they took the Chandler over to the Washington avenue hill and negotiated this hill in high from a standing start in high, all the way, having with the car the driver and two passengers.

Further proof of the Chandler power was demonstrated on the Santa Fe hill which parallels the Washington hill, but has added difficulties. Here again the sturdy automobile made the entire distance to the top in high.

LARGE GAIN IS REGISTERED BY WHIPPET CARS

Gains for Willys-Overland and Whippet motor cars for the first quarter of this year, as shown by complete registration figures now available for California, reached the high total of 47 per cent, according to a statement just given out by the Willys-Overland sales department. The industry as a whole showed a loss of 11 per cent for the same period.

Incomplete figures for the entire United States for the first three months of this year show a Willys-Overland increase of 14 per cent while the figures for the industry as a whole disclose a loss of six per cent.

The announcement that the 100,000th Whippet had been built was made a short time ago, marking a new record for a new car in its first eleven months of production and sales of this model all over the country are evidencing a growing popularity for this type of car.

To a very large extent, the 1200th car a day mark early in May with heavy orders from all sections.

In all quarters of the nation with the exception of the south-east, the gains made by Willys-Overland have been outstanding in their relation to the industry as a whole, says the factory report and in the Southeast the relative position of Willys-Overland is ahead of the industry as a whole.

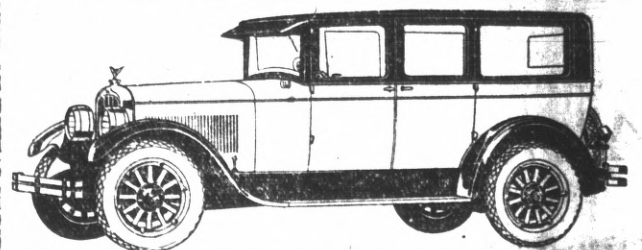

Chandler Metropolitan has a sedan was brought to Richmond this week and put through some heavy tests by Baker "Wild Bill" Baker as driver. Baker is district representative for the Chandler and he and George, accompanied by Grover Milnes, local newspaper man, went over some steep Richmond hills during the tests.

For instance, they drove the Chandler from San Pablo avenue up to the Berkeley Country Club all the way in high, a feat which takes a car with great power and speed range, as many Richmond people well know.

JOHNSON STARS IN S. O. NET CHAMPIONSHIP

Harold Johnson, Richmond Tennis club star, advanced into the semi-final round of the local Refinery tennis tournament by defeating R. R. Tillotson by scores of 6-4, 6-2. The match was the best exhibition of tennis seen in the tournament so far, Johnson electrifying the spectators with his net recoveries and placements. Although playing a hard game, Tillotson was no match for his opponent.

In the other match of the day, played on the Point Richmond courts, C. J. Peterson, left-handed, won in an easy straight set victory over A. S. Remell by scores of 6-2, 6-2. Peterson outlasted his opponent all through the match and by virtue of his victory meets Allen K. Herman in the round before the semi-finals, the match to be played this morning at 8:30 on the Point Richmond Courts. The winner of the Peterson-Herman match will then play Harold Johnson in the semi-finals of the lower half of the tournament.

In the upper half of the tournament, L. S. Fish advanced to the semi-finals by defeating Claire Bryant by scores of 6-3, 6-2, in a hard fought battle in which the court generalship of Fish kept him in the lead throughout the match. Fish then advanced into the finals through a default, by Geo. Caldwell, the dark horse of the tournament, who was called out of town for an indefinite period.

The winner of the Herman, Peterson and Johnson matches will meet Fish in the finals which are scheduled to take place next Saturday afternoon on the Point Richmond courts at 1 p. m. The winner of the tournament will receive a beautiful competitive trophy which was donated by the local refinery management.

FISHING "DOPE" IS ON DISPLAY

A good deal of informative data on fishing conditions gathered from authentic sources all over the state and published by the Pacific Sportsman in San Francisco, is contained in a bulletin now on display at Dougall's Hardware.

According to the bulletin, many of the rivers are high and roiled and the fishing is poor, except in rare instances when limit catches are taken by use of bait. Notable among these rivers are the Stanislaus, Tuolumne, San Joaquin, Yuba, Klamath, Little Truckee and parts of the Sacramento. This condition, although distasteful to the angler just now, is indicative of unusually good fishing later in the season. The Sacramento, although high and somewhat roiled, is producing good catches in its northern reaches.

Many big catches are reported near Tahoe Tavern and in the Truckee river.

Striped bass are small but plentiful at Napa and Vallejo, likewise in the Monterey bay area, while record catches of bass and perch are reported from Lake County.

Fishing is uncommonly good in Inyo and Mono counties, especially in June Lake in the latter county. The north fork of the Feather river near Belden is considered the best of all the Sierra streams for fly fishing while the lakes in the Feather Region also report good catches and excellent angling.

Trout are reported in plentiful quantities near Fort Seward and in the smaller tributaries of the Eel river. At Willits, Point Reyes and Ukiah, conditions are reported as unsatisfactory.

In all the streams east of Fresno notably at Hume lake and Ten Mile creek, fly fishing is good.

El Dorado county fishing is uncommonly good, especially in Big Silver creek and Ice House Silver creek.

Trout are starting to rise in the American river. Many of the mountain lakes are still frozen over.

At Whiskey slough, in the San Joaquin Delta, the striped bass are beginning to run. Black bass fishing at this point is fairly good.

WOODS VACATION IN YOSEMITE

Mr. and Mrs. T. Woods, 903 Pennsylvania avenue, are back from a two weeks' vacation in Yosemite Valley.

SPORT WHIRL

WHY THEY CALL IT ST. LOUIS

JESSE JOSEPH HAINES, born some thirty-four years ago in Clayton, O., Frank Frisch, born in New York city; Grover Cleveland Alexander, from St. Paul, Neb.; Flint Rhem, the South Carolinian; Willie Sherdel of Hanover, Pa., and Bob O'Farrell from Waukegan, Ill., are some of the athletes who are keeping the St. Louis Cardinals in the thick of the National League race.

Missouri's National League baseball citadels are manned by players who are only figuratively from Missouri.

The owner of the St. Louis team is Sam Breadon, originally a member of a knothole gang in New York City.

Frisch and Haines have perhaps done the most notable work for the Cardinals up to the present stage of the season.

Frisch, hitting savagely and fielding sensationally, has stirred his Missouri comrades to a frenzy of activity.

Haines, pitching afloat ball, has won five valuable victories and has enabled the other St. Louis heavies—Rhem, Sherdel, Alex—to get their regular allowance of rest.

USED TIME-TABLE FOR SCORE CARD

COOKING over Haines' major league and minor league record, you are amazed that one player could have done so much trollying in his youth and still have retained any vast amount of energy.

He started with Dayton, O., in 1914 and then in succeeding years we find him commuting to Saginaw, Detroit, Springfield, Denver, Topeka, Hutchinson, Cincinnati, Tulsa and Kansas City before finally landing with St. Louis in 1920.

In the course of his travels, Haines experienced the sensation of two shipwrecks. The league disbanded when he was panicking them with Saginaw, Mich., in 1915, and the Central League blew up right in his face while he was with Springfield, Ill., in 1916.

Haines could be pardoned if he had forsaken baseball with appropriate curses. "I wasn't a pitcher, I was a transfer," he says.

However, on July 7, 1924, five days before his thirty-first birthday, we find Haines pitching a no-hit, no-run game for St. Louis against Boston.

It was the only flawless pitching performance turned in either major league during 1924.

BOTH Detroit and Cincinnati had Haines on the payroll at various times.

Detroit had him in 1915 and 1916 and didn't even use him in a single game.

He might have been good, but Detroit didn't take the trouble to learn.

Cincinnati, however, gave him an eminently fair trial in 1918, when he joined the team late in the season.

Cincinnati pitched him in ONE GAME.

Two years later St. Louis got him and pitched him in forty-seven games.

In seven years with indifferent St. Louis teams, excepting the team of last season and this season, Haines has pitched 217 games winning ninety-six and losing ninety-one.

Detroit and Cincinnati, in three seasons, used him to finish ONE game.

Spanish Picadors Are Held World's Worst Bull Fighters

(By Universal Service)

MADRID, June 11.—Spaniards are complaining that the "picadors" seen in the bull fights these days are much inferior to those of the good old days, who did a much better job handling much more difficult animals.

"Except for a half dozen men," says Rafael Sanchez Guerra, in the "A B C," none of the picadors know anything about riding a horse, which of course is the first thing for one who wants to "prick" the bull in a worthy manner.

He goes on to say that there is no reason why this part of the spectacle cannot be done as well these days as before. Some of the picadors lay the blame on the poor horses, but the answer to this is that there will be better horses as soon as better picadors can be found to defend them.

Sanchez Niera, in his famous "Diccionario Taurino," urges the picadors to use former tried-out methods, always keeping the horse moving. For with the animals always inactive they are certain to be gored.

To another argument offered by the picadors, that the public taste has changed and people are better satisfied with the more recent manner of pricking the bull, the writer replies that they are merely resigned to accept what is given them. But let a good picador appear one day, managing his horse in the manner of Trigo, Anisas Calderon or Badilla—all famous horsemen—and he will see what a fine reception he receives.
